

Rules on Plagiarism
Institute for European Studies
Adopted on the 23rd of August 2016, revised in 2019

Considering that plagiarism is an unacceptable violation on ethical, intellectual, and legal grounds;

Conscious that tolerating plagiarism would infringe on academics as well as students by jeopardising the institute's reputation and undermining the upholding of core pedagogical practices;

Noting that students are well aware of the matter of intellectual integrity and that the ULB's library's website clearly explains how to avoid plagiarism:
(www.bib.ulb.ac.be/fr/aide/eviter-le-plagiat/index.html)

Recalling that plagiarism is not limited to the use of the whole of a text without using quotation marks or mentioning the full bibliographical reference, but also constitutes the act of using raw data, self-translated texts, or paraphrased ideas without clearly or fully referencing the author;

Agreeing that no justification, such as medical considerations, a lack of disciplinary background or level of study, is considered as a mitigating factor.

Taking note of article XI.165 of the Code of Economic Law, of article 66 of the General Studies' Regulation of the 3rd of July 2006, of the Disciplinary Regulation for Students of the 5th of October 1970, and of article 54 of the Faculty Regulation for the Organisation of Examinations of the 9th of December 2004;

The Institute for European Studies formally recommends, for any student proven of having committed the misdeed of plagiarism, the systematic granting of 0 as a grade for the course concerned. In case of confirmed plagiarism, the authorities of the IEE will apply the ULB General Regulation (the current Article 22).

I _____, hereby confirm having read these rules and certify that I have not committed plagiarism.
